History and Vision

We invite you to share a space in our circle as we embark upon a playful adventure that will provide opportunities for experiential environmental education. Our wise and wily coyote mentors will cultivate a supportive and nurturing environment for children to learn, create, and grow! As we spend our days, exploring Ocean Song, a diverse ecosystem situated amidst the magical coastal highlands of west Sonoma County, we will engage in such activities as...

Wilderness Exploration

Swimming

Nature Games

Organic Gardening

Tracking

Storytelling

Bird Language

Wildcrafting

Music & Dance

Sustainable Living Skills

Community Building

Creative Arts

Sponsored by Earthways Foundation and Ocean Song Farm and Wilderness Center, Coyote Camp is a continuing legacy which has been inspired in part by the former Ocean Song summer program, Discovery Day Camp. Coyote Camp was founded with the intentions of helping to awaken and inspire the wild hearts and dreams of children and to cultivate a deeper sense of respect, awareness, and appreciation for the earth and all of our relations.

Junior Mentor Training Program

With the formation of our Junior Mentor Training Program, older youth now have the opportunity to apprentice with our staff of experienced Coyote Mentors in the art of "coyote mentoring." Working and playing alongside our Coyote Mentors during the summer day camp, the junior mentors will be able to participate in all of the fun while taking on an active leadership role in assisting with the mentoring of the younger children and furthering their own hands-on learning adventure. We will be accepting at most 2 junior mentors each week. Junior mentors can apply for one or more weeks.

WHO: The program is open to youth ages 12-13 years of age who have attended at least 2 years of Coyote Camp and who have been accepted through the application process.

COST: $150 per junior mentor/per week. A $60 deposit is required upon acceptance.

For more details about the program or to request an application, please contact Annie Klein.
